ONEIDA'S ANNUAL FAIR

This Year's Display of the Oneida County Agricultural Society Will be Interesting—Fast Horses Coming.

The Sixth annual fair which will be held here this year Sept. 16, 17, 18 and 19 at the grounds of the Agricultural Society bears promise of being the most interesting of any thus far given.

When a few men gathered together six years ago and talked over the formation of a fair association there were many skeptics who freely riddled the idea that the agricultural possibilities in this county would warrant any such move. Notwithstanding this however a movement was started that soon materialized into definite shape. Officers were elected and land secured, plans were drawn for the buildings and it was not long before the work assumed such proportions that a county fair here in Rhinelander was an assured thing.

No better means of advertising the resources of the county could have been originated. The farmers took great pride in the movement from the first and exhibits were brought in from the cleared land in the county that surprised and delighted the fathers of the society. Monstrous vegetables were brought in that almost looked like freaks of nature.
Cabbages that would not go into a bushel basket and cucumbers over two feet in length were among the exhibits brought to the fair the first year. It seemed that even the seed placed in the ground put forth an extra effort to do something out of the common to help along the fair directors in their efforts toward publicity.

The sympathies of the horsemen in the fair movement were enlisted from the first and their active interest in the work of clearing the ground for a half-mile race track materially aided the association.

The site selected for the grounds was covered with pine slashings when the association began work but it was not long before the desolate appearance of things was changed for the better and now there is little in the new to mark the old site as it stood when work began.

The grand stand has been lengthened and will now accommodate a much larger crowd than it has heretofore.

ALPHONSE AND GASTON

The interesting gentlemen pictured above are contemplating attending the fair and are arguing as to who shall buy the tickets.

The principal exhibit in the stock department this year will be twelve head of Scotch Short Horns which will be displayed by Duncan Brothers, the famous Wausau breeders.

The races at the track this year will be by all odds the best the association has ever been able to arrange for. Already there are 22 entries for ing.

RHINELANDER WELL REPRESENTED.

J. J. Reardon and Paul Browne Shoot Well at Menominee, Mich.

About 35 of the best shots in the state of Michigan and a couple from this city, met at Menominee last Saturday to see who was who.

The tournament was much after the order of the big shoot here last summer and was attended by a number of the best trap shooters in the state.

Paul Browne and John Reardon represented the Rhinelander Gun Club at the gathering, and in their usual way upheld the reputation of the city as being the home of some of the best men with a shotgun in the northwest.

In the first day's shoot Rhinelander representatives made better than 50 per cent. in the events. They improved the second day of the tournament and each broke 50 per cent. of the birds thrown from the trap. In the last event Reardon broke 21 out of 25 birds.

The Rhinelander men were numbered among the ten best shots who figured in the events. There were but few birds between the ten leaders.

IRON CO. TO BUILD MILL

Rhinelander Iron Co. Secures Contract for Rebuilding Mill for Mather Brothers at State Line.

Word was received here by John Diller, of the Rhinelander Iron Co., Tuesday from Mather Brothers, the State Line lumbermen that the company had given them the contract for rebuilding the burned sawmill at the above place.

Mr. Diller, president of the Iron Company, left last week and practically closed arrangements with the State Line men to build the mill and the telegram Tuesday closed the matter.

The Crane mill at Tomahawk which has been idle for some time will be taken down by a crew of men in the employ of the local company and shipped to the State Line where it will be put up. The mill is of the single band pattern with a gang edge and has a capacity of 20,000 feet of lumber every ten hours.

A crew of men left yesterday for Tomahawk and work will begin at once on the Crane mill.

The Iron Company will employ between 25 and 30 men on the job and while the contract calls for its completion within 90 days, Mr. Diller will endeavor to finish everything up in considerably less time.

Sermons at Congregational Church.

Sunday morning at 10:30 a new order of service will be introduced.

HORSE'S KICK IS FATAL

John Moran, of Necedah, Employed by George E. Wood Co. at Woodboro, Dies at the Hospital.

The lifeless body of John Moran, a camp employee of the George E.
Wood Lumber Co., at Woodboro, was shipped from here to the dead man's widowed mother at Necedah Monday.

Death resulted from a kick delivered by one of a team of four horses last week. Moran had stooped over to do some job behind the forward team and was found a few minutes later by another workman, lying between the horses. He had been kicked in the head and was unconscious when picked up by his companion.

The injured man was taken to his room but remained in a state of coma for two days. Dr. Welch was summoned from here by telephone and advised that the man be brought to the hospital here where he could be more properly cared for. The injury to his head proved to be of a nature that would not yield to medical skill and death resulted from hemorrhage of the brain Saturday morning at 1:30 o'clock.

Mr. Moran was a single man 45 years of age and had been employed by the Woodboro concern for years.
He was one of the company's highest paid men.

mote the welfare of the schools in the

To THE VOTERS: I respectfully announce my candidacy for the nomination of County Superintendent of schools at the coming county convention. If nominated and elected I will put forth my best efforts to promote the welfare of the schools in the county. MISS MARY GERMONI,

WERE NOT IMPLICATED

William LeVake and Ben Jordan, Arrested on Suspicion of Being Connected With Young Murder, Freed.

The two last suspects, thought by the authorities to have been implicated in the shooting at Menominee Junction, and who have been held at the county jail pending examination, were taken before the district attorney Monday and after considerable questioning were released, there not being sufficient evidence to hold them.

LeVake was arrested at Alzoma by the town marshal a week ago last Friday on suspicion of being the man who fired the fatal shot which resulted in Conductor Young's death.
He answered the description of the man pretty well and seemed very anxious to get across the lake into Michigan.

Jordan was taken in at Mattoon Saturday upon private advice received by Sheriff Koley that a man answering the description of the mur-derer had been in a logging camp there for some time. The man acted ill at ease and would sit and brood by himself for hours at a time, according to the report and his actions finally resulted in word being sent to the authorities. The advice stated that it would be well for the officer to come fully prepared for trouble as it was not thought that the man would give himself up without making a fight. Under Sheriff Association went down after the man and was prepared to meet any hostile movement but he had no trouble. Jordan went with the officer without offering any resistance.

Transportation was furnished the men out of the city and they left Tuesday.

The rewards offered by the North-Western Road and Oneida county has been the means of all officers and railroad men in the state keeping a sharp lookout for the murderer.

DOINGS OF CITY FATHERS

Meeting at the Council Rooms Tuesday Night Results in Usual Amount of Business Being Done.

Considerable business was cleaned up by the city council Tuesday night, the days being all in good trim to look after the wants of their constituents.

A motion was carried to lay a sewer along Dahl street from Lot 2 in Block 20 of the Second Addition east and in front of Blocks 19 and 22 far enough so that the sewage be discharged into the swamp east of the city. The petition was signed by six property owners. It is understood that the owners of the swamp will not grant a permit for the laying of sewer pipe that will drain into it and in that event the work will be at a standstill as the city mains cannot be reached.

It was moved and seconded that the fire department committee be authorized to investigate the condition of the Grand Opera House and be empowered to employ one or more competent men to inspect the building. If found unsafe legislation will be taken to prevent its use until repaired.

The gentlemen from Grand Rapids who seek a lighting franchise from the city were represented at the meeting by a gentleman who saw that the application for the franchise was presented to the council in proper form. The representative stated that his company would be pleased to have the committee to whom the franchise was referred visit Grand Rapids at their expense and judge of the working of the plant thereby personal observation.

Inspectors, clerks and ballot clerks of election were named by the mayor.

Applications for the extension of water mains were laid over.

A new fire light was authorized for the corner of Fremont street and Werk Ave.

A petition for the grading and improvement of Anderson street from Pellham to Oneida Ave. was granted and work is now in progress.

Application for improvements on Stevens street from Frederick to Harvey was laid over owing to lack of funds.

W. K. Chandler to Wed.

Cards were received here Tuesday announcing the coming marriage of W. K. Chandler, formerly of this city and a brother of Rev. J. Chandler, a former pastor of the Congregational church, to Miss Ella Nash, of Grand Forks, N. D. The ceremony will take place at St. Paul's church in the above city Sept. 17.

Mr. Chandler is employed in the offices of the Great Northern Railway at Grand Forks.

Band Instruments for the Indians.

E. G. Spiker was at Lac du Flambeau yesterday with a consignment of new band instruments for the Indian band on the Flambeau Reservation. He was accompanied by E. C.
Sturdevant and F. C. Fitch. Two trumpets, two clarinets, one helicon and a snare and bass drum were taken up.

See "A Hidden Crime."

A Generous Act.

The Chicago & North-Western Ry.
Co. has again shown its generous hand in dealing with the families of its deceased employes. In the case of Mrs. H. T. Young, widow of Conductor Young, murdered at Menominee Junction several weeks ago, Mr. C.
H. Hartley, superintendent, at once took a personal interest in the case, and the company through his efforts sent (Chas. Agent Hyman here last week. He called on Mrs. Young and after ascertaining the financial condition of the family, he asked her to accompany him to the Court House, where he took up the mortgages on her property and presented her with a check of four figures and a life pass on the road. We believe that if other railway officers were to take their personal interest in the welfare of their employees as that shown by Mr. Hartley, that it would engender a much kindlier feeling between officers and men and consequently the public would receive much better service.
It must be borne in mind that there was absolutely no liability on the part of the company in Mr. Young's case, as he was murdered by tramps.

Union services were held at the Methodist church last Sunday evening. Rev. White, the church pastor, delivered the address which was listened to by a very large congregation.

CONSECRATION SERVICE

St. Augustine's Episcopal Church in This City is Consecrated by Bishop Weller of Fond du Lac.

Friday evening Bishop Weller with Fr. Babcock visited Eagle River and preached to an enthusiastic audience and confirmed two adults.

About eleven years ago the venerable Archbishop Jenner held the first services here of the Episcopal church.
They were held in the building of the Baptist Society, through the kindness of that society.

Archdeacon Selapeter next held services here a month in a store on Stevens street. It was then arranged with Fr. Birch of Antigo, to hold services in the G. A. R. Hall, every other Sunday. The mission was organized with about six families.
At about this time lots were presented on Pellham street and the present church was built.

Bishop Weller, acting for Bishop Grafton, consecrated St. Augustine's church last Thursday, St. Augustine's day. Bishop Grafton was expected to have been present but was prevented by illness.

There was choral even-song Wednesday and Thursday evenings at which Bishop Weller preached. Celebrations of the Holy Eucharist Thursday at 7:30 and 8 a. m. The consecration service took place at 10:30. Fr. Hitchcock, of Bayfield, formerly of Rhinelander, was present and presided at the organ. Fr.
Conrad of Wausau was also present and with Fr. Babcock assisted at the consecration service. The musical part of the service was excellent.
Miss Alban and Miss LaSelle assisting the choir, also Miss McQueen with the violin.

ent church erected. After an interval Fr. Hitchcock settled here as their first resident pastor and ministered faithfully to the growing society for three years. He resigned in February 1901 to take up the work at Bayfield and Washburn.

A year ago Fr. Babcock took charge of the parish.

During the past year the church has been completed with interior decorating and seated with oak pews, at a cost of $700. On Easter last the liberal offering of $150 paid up all indebtedness of every nature.

The society has grown quietly but steadily and now numbers over forty families, 150 baptized and 50 active communicants.

A new oak altar and credence will soon be in place. It was expected in time for the consecration service but was delayed by illness of the architect.

Fr. Babcock also has charge of the unorganized missions at Eagle River, Pellham Lake and Cranston.

Bishop Weller will visit the parish again during the winter to administer the sacrament to any prepared for full communion with the church.

Women Hunters Capture Game.

Mrs. Dr. McInnes, Mrs. Dr. Packard and Mrs. N. T. Baldwin made up a party of three hunters who started out after partridges the first day of the open season. They had a dog and succeeded in bagging ten nice fat birds before the shades of evening darkened the earth.

Considering the number of men who go out and come back empty-handed, the work of the ladies is not to be sneezed at.

New Grand Opera House Sold.

W. H. Gillman purchased from Mose Brouette Tuesday the property at the corner of Anderson and Pellham streets, known as Brouette's hall, and more recently as the New Grand opera house.

It is understood that Mr. Gillman bought the building as an investment and that no material change will be made in it at present. One of the best dance floors in the city is held in the second story of the building, and it is not likely that Mr. Gillman will do anything to put it out of use for some time to come.

TRADE REVIEW.

How the Business Situation Appears to Leading Commercial Agencies.

New York, Aug. 20.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "Gradual resumption of antitrust coalmining is encouraging, although the output is not yet sufficient to have any commercial value. Business conditions are unsatisfactory at the strike center, but reports from all other sections indicate unusually prompt revival after the summer vacation season, with exceptionally large operations among dealers in the agricultural regions. Notwithstanding some bad weather, large crops are now practically assured, although the most favorable results may not be attained. Manufacturing plants are now fully occupied as a rule, the least gratifying reports coming from furnaces that cannot secure coke owing to railway blockades. The transportation problem is becoming serious, as the factor of crop moving is about to be added, and, moreover, much coal must be moved by rail that usually goes to consumers by lake and canal. Failures for the week numbered 113 in the United States, against 202 last year, and 14 in Canada, against 21 a year ago."

Bradstreet's says: "August closes with a picture of activity apparently at its height in the northern half of the country and the total volume of the month's operations probably in excess of any similar period in previous years. Actively instrumental in bringing about this result are the continued good crop prospects."

POOR WEEK FOR FARMERS.

As a Whole, Weather East of Rocky Mountains Is Too Cool for Growing Crops.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Following is the agricultural department's weekly summary of crop conditions:

As a whole, the weather conditions east of the Rocky mountains have not been favorable, being too cool in the northern districts eastward of the Missouri valley, with too much moisture in portions of the central valley, while excessively hot in the southern states, where crops are reported to be suffering generally throughout the cotton belt. Although cool, the conditions were fairly favorable for maturing crops in the Ohio valley and over the southern portion of the middle Atlantic states, as well as on the Pacific coast.

Corn is greatly in need of warm, dry weather throughout the northern portion of the corn belt, where the abnormally cool weather of the past two weeks has greatly retarded its maturity. Over the southern portion of the corn belt an excellent crop of early corn is now practically assured. In portions of Iowa and central Illinois corn has badly lodged as a result of local storms.

Spring wheat harvest is underbush in the northern portion of the Red River valley, where it has been interrupted by frequent showers, which have also seriously interfered with stacking and threshing. Sprouting and rotting in stack and shock are reported from Iowa and in southern Minnesota. Harvest is about three-fourths finished, and will be completed in Washington during the present week, with fields about the average, though less than expected in Washington.

The outlook for crops in New York is more favorable. A slightly improved prospects are reported from Ontario and northern Illinois. A good crop is indicated in Kansas, Michigan and New England, and a fair crop in New Jersey and Maryland. Portions of Missouri, in many important apple states, however, a light crop is promised.

It has been too dry for favorable progress with plowing for fall seeding in portions of the middle Atlantic states, lake region and Oklahoma; elsewhere the reports indicate that this work has made favorable advancement.

"I first used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the fall of 1895. Since then I have taken it every spring as a blood-purifying and nerve-strengthening medicine."—S. T. Jones, Wichita, Kans.

If you feel run down, are easily tired, if your nerves are weak and your blood is thin, then begin to take the good old standard family medicine—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It's a nerve lifter, a blood builder.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of this great old family medicine. Follow his advice and we will be satisfied.

To hasten recovery, keep the liver active and the bowels regular with Ayer's Pills. All vegetable.

TWO OF BRODIE'S
WAR EXPERIENCES

BY DOCK SOPER.

"I WAS a strange coadjutor," said Col. Brodie, now governor of Arizona, and the second in command of the celebrated rough riders, the other day as he with a few more of that scattering band of famous fighters were waiting at an Arizona station for a train. "I was wounded when I was a lieutenant, just fresh from West Point, on June 24, by Apaches here, and it was June 24, 20 years later, I was wounded at Las Guasimas, in Cuba.

"I was nothing but a kid then, and had been stationed at Fort Grant. A short time afterwards I was sent to Fort Apache, during the outbreak in '78, built up the place and was trying to keep the red devils in shape there with a few men. I rode into the country on horseback over 200 miles, and you had to ride 250 to get to the nearest railroad point to the north to get out.

"We had been camped up at the fort for over four months without any mail; the men were restless—guess it was enough to make them restless, too, for we had expected the whole herd of Apaches down on us at any time.
You could never tell what old Geronimo would do. One day the captain gave me a detail of 15 men and told me to go to Fort Grant for mail and a few supplies. It was over a hundred miles through the Indian country, with hills and deserts where a jackrabbit would have trouble in keeping on a trail. About half-way out, eight of my troopers deserted. There wasn't any use in trying to get them back, for you couldn't very well find them in the first place, and I hadn't enough men to take them if I had found 'em.

"We had been dodging hostile bands for some time before we had a brush with them. Coming up through a draw, we jumped up a band of about 15 or 20, and the music commenced.
There was no way of getting in, any fancy moves on them—we were in the bottom of a narrow canyon that was just about wide enough for a road. It was either go ahead, retreat or climb

"HEADED STRAIGHT INTO THEM ON A DEAD RUN." out the side of the canyon. There wasn't much to hesitate over; we would have a long retreat down that canyon and been potted if we had attempted to climb up the sides. My sergeant was an old-timer, as were quite a number of the little squad that was left. They knew as well as I did that the only thing that would save us or any of us was a quick dash right into the something that an Indian can't stand a little bit. We gave them a volley from our carbines as a starter, and had the satisfaction of seeing three or four of them drop; then, yelling like a pack of hyenas, we started down the draw, leading straight into them on a dead run; each trooper swung out his six-shooter, ready for a snap shot at an Indian.

The old sergeant was close to my horse's heels, with every fellow bugging down close in his saddle. I turned around in my saddle just before we struck them, and as I did so a bullet broke through my saddle horn and one out through my vest and ripped me across the stomach about a half-inch deep. The 'Pukes couldn't stand the rush. We ran them up the canyon about a mile before they could find any side breaks to get out of and scatter.
We lost three troopers in the "About 4,000 kegs and barrels of capers, a small, sour berry resembling in color and shape a green pea, are annually imported into the United States from Spain and France," said a wholesale dealer in all sorts of condiments in New York to the writer recently. "Capers grow on a bush, and are extensively used by all classes of cooks in this country for pickling salads and making a sauce which is usually served with boiled mutton and other meats.

There are four sizes of capers. The smallest are commercially known as capers, and the three other sizes are called capricins, capotes and sur-fines. The smallest capers are the most desirable, and bring the most money. Very few capers are imported in glass. They are shipped to fight. After it was over we went back to where they were, rolled them in their blankets and buried them among the rocks as best we could. There wasn't much ceremony or tears for the poor fellows—we hadn't time for it—and the fact that we expected it all the time took away much of the sadness of the scene besides, there was a sprinkling probability of the whole bunch of us going the same way before we got through, without any one being left to bury us in our blankets. If the 'poor' Indian gathered in a band of bluecoats, he gathered their hair, and left the buzzards to do the rest.

"After burying the troopers we struck a trail up the canyon side and camped in a clearing where we commanded a view of the surrounding country, and doctored up our wounds as best we could. Mine was painful, but only a flesh wound. I think I was sorer over my ruined new coat and vest than from the wound.

"The same band came circling around again that afternoon and we exchanged a few long shots at them.
As soon as night came we broke camp and struck out for Fort Grant as fast as we could make it through the darkness and eluded them. An Indian won't fight much at night, anyhow.
We reached the fort next day. The closer we came to it the less danger there was, for troopers from the fort kept the country around pretty well cleaned up and quiet.

"We stayed at the fort several days until our wounds healed up before making the return trip. The colonel in command at the fort insisted on my staying there, as there were over 2,000 hostile Indians on the warpath and scattered all over that part of the country; he told me how foolish it was to try to get back, but I was only 21 and had told the captain I'd be back with the mail and supplies, so I couldn't stay.

"I didn't know it at the time, but found out afterward that the Indians I had the fight with belonged to a sub-chief, and a relative of old Geronimo.
We hadn't been out but two days when we sighted them. They had gathered up some more braves and came in sight about sundown—luckily for us.
They took a few shots at us and then went into camp just over a hill from where we were.
We could hear them holding pow-wows and singing while making ready to dangle our scalps in their belts in the morning. I remember I sat looking into the campfire that night, wishing I was back home, and wondering what in thunder to do, when the old sergeant came over to me and asked:

"Lieutenant, you don't think we kin lick that bull outfit over there, do you?"

"No, sergeant, I don't. What do you think we'd better do?"

"Well, I think we'd better build up a big campfire so they kin see it, then drift and drift till hell over the hills and out of this."

"And we did. We struck an old trail and followed it all night. About daylight we found ourselves on a hilltop and right in the center of an old deserted village. It was that night's trip that gave me my high appreciation of the government mule. Every mule in that packtrain seemed to understand the situation, and there wasn't a whimper or a bray from any one of the lot until we had put a good night's travel between us and the indians. We didn't have any more trouble in getting into the fort, though we crossed a number of warm Indian trails on the way.

"Afterwards I met the old sub-chief when he came into the fort to make peace, and he told me how many times he had shot at me on that trip, and couldn't seem to understand why it was that he never got me.

"The wound I got at Las Guasimas, in Cuba, was another lucky thing, too.
A lot of troops were lined up at the foot of the hill, and we were getting it from the trenches up on the hill. I was talking up and down before my battalion and had orders to hold them fast to protect our flank from an enslaved fire on the right. I had just waved my glove at the boys to hold fast and dropped my hand to my side again when a Maudslayi struck me in the arm. If I hadn't dropped my arm the ball would have cut me right through the center. It turned round and knocked me down. I went to the rear to see how badly I was hit and found that the ball had splintered the bone pretty bad. It was three days before I had it fixed up. There was a lump on the inside of my arm, and when the surgeon examined it, he said there was a piece of bone sticking out that he would have to cut out. He made a cut across the lump, and out popped that bullet, straight and foremost. If it had come straight, as most of them do, it never would have stopped.

"The following day I wandered around back of the firing trying to help the poor fellows who were worried that I was, and I remember seeing one of the Arizona boys coming down the road, with tears running down his cheeks, and I thought he was badly wounded. He saw me and yelled:
'Hello, major; where is the firing line?' I told him it was away on ahead, but the fight was over. He seemed to feel worse than ever, and broke out with as choice a lot of cuss words as I ever heard a male driver get rid of, and wound up by saying: 'It's just my blamed luck; come all the way down here to fight, then get knocked out by the climate in a few yards from the fight.'—Los Angeles Herald.

Tea-Nile Corn Field.
In Harrison township, near Monroe City, there is an area 1941 miles in extent that is now an unbroken ocean of corn, which will yield from 50 to 100 bushels per acre. Until recently this area was an untrained, marshy wilderness known as Monroes pond. Robert S. Johnson, one of the managers of the pond, recalls that after the civil war the place was a wilderness, densely timbered, and as late as ten years ago wildcats, reptiles and other animals inhabited it.—Louisville Courier Jour-

Movement to Exclude Them from Offices.

There is a movement among brokers in New York to exclude women from their business houses and to deny them the privilege of speculating in stocks. Femininity, they say, has been given a fair chance to show its adaptability in "the street," and has failed miserably, reports the New York Times.

For a long time many brokers have considered women undesirable patrons for a multitude of reasons. Of late the opposition has crystallized, and a several prominent firms have taken a bold, determined stand to ostracize those members of the fair sex whose gaming instinct and desire to get rich quick prompt them to speculate on the markets.

The following is a copy of a letter sent out by a well-known firm of stock brokers. It shows plainly the attitude of brokers, and it is not unlike letters that have been sent out recently by other firms:

"Dear Madam: We regret to inform you that in future we shall be unable to afford you the privilege of calling at our office on Wall Street. We do not wish to our best customers consider it unbecoming for women to frequent brokers' offices, and for that reason we ask that in future you will kindly communicate with us only by letter or telephone. In this matter we have no objection making. Every woman who has an account or who has done business with us will receive similar notice by the same mail. Yours very truly, "Stock Brokers.—Broadway."

"A woman is a nuisance anywhere outside of her own home," said a well-known reputable stock broker to a reporter who called on him at his office in a lower Broadway skyscraper the other day.

"In the first place, a broker's office is no place for a woman. The average woman knows little about brokerage.
Business instinct is not innate in the woman, ordinarily speaking, and, worse than that, she can't learn. Tell her all you know about stocks and market conditions and practices, and the next day she will ask you the same thing again.

"Another thing: The woman who desires to trade in stocks, knowing nothing of them or the business, wants the broker to become her confidant, to tell just where and when to buy or sell.
If she makes something out of an investment made on a broker's advice, she glories over her shrewdness on 'the street,' and the broker gets no credit whatever. Should she lose, and every broker must go wrong in predictions once in awhile, then there's the devil to pay."

Brokers say that a woman does not seem to be able to realize that there is a possibility of losing in speculating in stocks. Therefore she is what a gamble would call a "bad loser." Or course, there is an occasional woman who knows the market and its sinu-osities, and is as "game" as any man on the street. But she is mighty scarce. The ordinary woman speculator and trader makes an awful fuss when she makes a losing investment.

Sometimes the spectacle is ludicrous.
In the extreme, but more frequently it is a sad one. Many women with the gaming instinct, who, besides seeking the excitement attendant upon the speculation, hope to get wealthy in a few days, go into it when the money they stake is needed for the necessities of life for themselves and their families. The result of the failure in the latter instance is pitiable. To the broker it is mere racking.

One does not think of the cafe as a force for social, moral or intellectual advancement. Nevertheless, on the East side in New York it does much good.

and storekeepers have finished the day's business. All enter the

BOSTON TEA-PARTY BOWL.

Rhode Island Collector Has the Venerable Bowl That Played in the Tea Tossing Event.

The famous historical punch bowl of the Boston tea party has just fallen into the hands of a Rhode Island collector of antique furniture, colonial blue ware and original and early Shakespeare prints, reports the Boston Globe.

On the 19th of last December Marden J. Perry, a Providence railway magnate and a banker with a fortune of several millions, married Mrs. Marian Lincoln Rogers at Ware, Mass., and they went to Providence to reside permanently in the residence of Mr. Perry, at George and Benefit streets, on the aristocratic East side of that city.

The new home of the bride was a marvel in its interior decorations, and there were many very attractive and costly articles of ornamentation, together with an elaborate display of valuable colored ware incidental to the foundation of the United States and its early history. The existence of such a collection in her new home caused Mrs. Perry to suggest to her wealthy husband that within his grasp was the celebrated punch bowl of the revolutionary period, when high priced and overtaxed tea was cast into the waters of Boston bay, and there was a celebration and great rejoicing incidental thereto.

The great men of Boston of that day had a feast after the tea tossing episode, and the affair was not rounded out in true Yankee fashion until the punch had all disappeared from the bowl, which had been fornished for the notable occasion by one of the distinguished ancestors of the present Mrs. Perry. As soon as the Gammell mansion, now undergoing rejuvenation by carpenters, painters and decorators, is completed, the punch bowl is to have a conspicuous place in a great sideboard which Mr. Perry intends to have constructed, and then there will be patriotic days when the friends of the millionaire are to quaff the finest vintages from the Boston tea party punch bowl.

The man-lion in question is one of the earliest of the colonial in the state of Rhode Island, and it fell into the hands of Mr. Perry about a year ago. Parts of the house were constructed more than 100 years ago and when the trade of New England was a good deal in the line of rum and negroes the mansion of the Drowns and their descendants figured in the social life of the town and the plantations established by Roger Williams. Hence, when the Boston tea party punch bowl is finally nestled away in Providence it will have a fitting roof over its white earthenware rim, and the timbers of the old mansion can vie with the history of the bowl in claims of distinguished pedigree and renown.

The punch bowl. It is learned, came down safely to the days of the twentieth century through the care and painstaking of the forefathers of Mrs. Perry. They were the Lincolns and have been figured in the history of Massachusetts for quite a little more than 200 years.

Just a Little Hint.
"Your father doesn't seem to regard me very favorably," remarked tholly. "Does he think I'm too dashing?"
"No," wearily replied the girl who was already in her third season.
"He thinks you are too slow."—Chi-

LITTLE MEN and
LITTLE WOMEN.

HEN RAISED KITTENS.
Barryard Biddy Forsook Her Brood for a Litter of Squawking Little Cats.

Fort Arthur, Tex., boasts five healthy young kittens that were brought through the infant stage successfully by a fussy old hen. So far has the fame of the strange brood spread that photographers have journeyed many miles to get a snap shot at the picture offered.
One of these pictures is in the possession of Dr. Fred S. Selby, 2033 West Adams street, Chicago, and from it is reproduced the accompanying sketch.

The kittens and the hen with the strange fancy for furry pets are the property of Mrs. W. P. Park, the mother of Dr. Selby's wife. The hen is one of the veterans of the Park roost and is accustomed to have things its own way. Early this spring the mistress of the poultry yard brought forth a brood of feathery young chicks, and not liking the place where her family was born, led them across the bayard and established headquarters in a barrel near the house. Mrs. Park wanted the chicks in the henhouse, so she overturned the barrel and "shooed" them off.

Meanwhile the family cat happened along and discovered the barrel laying on its side. She crawled in and while after the plaintive mew of five wee kittens broke on the silence of the farm. This unwanted sound in the place that had heretofore been entirely the realm of the poultry attracted the attention of the old hen that had been driven off, and with much ado and a running fire of clucks she descended upon the barrel and attacked the mother cat with a great fury. The cat retreated before the onslaught and the hen, pausing to look over the fuzzy kittens, decided they were the makings of a good family and adopted them. She descended her own brood of chicks altogether and took up her headquarters in the barrel, driving off the old cat every time she appeared. After a few days she yielded so far that she would permit the cat to nurse her young, but that was all.

The kittens seemed to find nothing strange in the new condition of affairs, and as they grew older had great sport climbing over and clawing feathers out of their guardians.
Now they are big enough to get about for themselves, but they still share the barrel with the old hen and she ignores her feathery companions of former days and follows the felines all over the grounds surrounding the Park residence.

One of the remarkable features concerning these chicken-raised cats is that they never torment or try to kill the poultry in the yard.

ber talks so much to his customers.

TRICK FOR AMATEUR MAGICIANS

WITH the help of electricity in its almost perfect form a great many tricks and amazing feats can be performed such as the following described by the Internat. Press: Get a plain sheet of glass about 12 inches long by eight inches wide and insert it between two volumes, as shown in illustration. The distance of the glass from the table should be about three inches. With the help of scissors cut a number of small figures, such as men, women, clouds, animals, etc., not higher than one and one-half inches, out of different colored paper. Lay the little figures flat

A BENEFIT TO FARMERS.

Consolidation of Harvester Plants Means the Continuation of Low Prices to Farmers.

The benefits that will undoubtedly result to farmers from the recent incorporation of the International Harvester Company, which took over the business of the five leading harvester manufacturers have probably not been considered by a large portion of the farming community.
The economical necessity of a consolidation of the interests of manufacturers and those of their farmer customers must be apparent to any one who understands the present situation.
The increased and increasing cost of material, manufacturing and selling—the latter in consequence of extreme and bitter competition between manufacturers and their several selling agents—has made the business unprofitable.

The two alternatives left for the manufacturers were either the increasing of the prices of machines or the reduction of the cost of manufacture and sales. The latter could only be accomplished by concentrating the business in one company.

As can readily be seen, the forming of the new company was not a stock jobbing operation, but a centering of mutual interests. There is no watered stock; the capitalization is conservative and represented by actual and tangible assets. There is no stock offered to the public, it having all been subscribed and paid for by the manufacturers and their associations.

The management of the International Harvester Company is in the hands of well-known, experienced men.

The officers are: President, Cyrus H. McCormick; Chairman Executive Committee, Charles Deering; Chairman Finance Committee, George W.
Perkins; Vice-Presidents, Harold F.
McCormick, James Deering, Wm. H.
Jones and John J. Glessner; Secretary and Treasurer, Richard F. Howe.
The members of the Board of Directors are as follows: Cyrus Den-ting, William Deering, Charles Deering, James Deering, Eldridge M. Fowler, E. H. Gary, John J. Glessner, Richard F. Howe, Abram M. Hyatt, William H. Jones, Cyrus H. McCormick, Harold F. McCormick, George W. Perkins, Norman B. Ream, Leslie N. Ward, Paul D. Cravath.

The International Harvester Company owns five of the largest harvester plants in existence, The Champion, Deering, McCormick, Milwaukee and Plano—plants that have been producing nearly or quite 90 per cent. of the harvesting machines of the world.

It also owns timber and coal lands, blast furnaces and a steel plant; it has a new factory in process of construction in Canada.

It is believed that the cost of producing grain, grass and corn harvesting machines will be so reduced that the present low prices can be continued, and that consequently the results cannot be otherwise than beneficial to the farmer. To maintain the present prices of these machines requires to continue and increase the development of the agriculture of the world, for no one cause has contributed or can contribute more to this development than the cheapness of machines for harvesting grains.

During the fiscal years ended with June, 1907 vessels, of 412,551 gross tons, were launched in the United States, compared with 1,709 vessels, of 49,616 tons, in 1901. The decrease is in sailing vessels, canal boats, barges, etc.

Wood intended to be made into piano requires to be kept 40 years to be in perfect condition.
